

BUILDING ON SUCCESS

A personal message from Gary Ling, the Conservative Party's candidate for Eccles.

Dear Elector

I think you'll agree that policies which result in long-term prosperity for our country are crucial to the maintenance of the civilised and caring society. It is because the Conservatives are the only Party which have the courage to take the tough decisions necessary to help bring this about that I write to ask you for your vote.

Of course, it's quite clear that we don't live in a perfect world and that money doesn't grow on trees for either governments or individuals. But can you really say that you are worse off now than when the Conservatives were first elected in 1979? Indeed, do you remember just how grim life was under Labour?

Realistically, it is only by creating an environment in which the strong, healthy and able are encouraged to create wealth, that we can generate the money to finance our precious National Health Service and help the less able and those of limited means.

I am proud to campaign on the record of the Conservatives in Government where we have improved public services and are still tackling areas of inefficiency. We have a positive approach to policy making for the 1990s, while the Labour Party are still wedded to the Politics of Envy, whereby if you are even relatively successful, you are stripped of reward through high taxation to satisfy Labour's socialist goals.

Under Prime Minister John Major this Conservative Government will continue to strive to make the UK a place where each individual can enrich their working and social lives through their own hard work and enterprise. As a country, Britain simply cannot afford a return to Socialist Government. As a concerned citizen, you simply can't afford not to vote Conservative!

Yours sincerely

Gary Ling

P.S. Whatever your views, please do vote. A lot of people have given their lives to give you the opportunity to do so.

Gary Ling, 32, was chosen by local Conservatives as their prospective parliamentary candidate in November, 1991. Since then he has knocked on many doors and met many local residents and business people. Gary is pictured above with Employment Secretary Michael Howard at the new £2.5 million development at the Northbank Industrial Park, Irlam by the successful automation company, Thurnal PLC.

Gary is a business development manager with an international company based in the UK. Gary went to a secondary modern school in Watford and was educated at the University of Aberdeen, the Royal Military Academy Sandhurst, and the City University Business School, London, where he was awarded a Masters Degree in Business Administration. He has been an active Conservative for many years and is a local Councillor on Watford Borough Council. Gary and his wife Helen enjoy hill walking and Gary is an avid football fan.

Vote GARY LING - CONSERVATIVE
